

PROFESSOR PENGUIN'S JOURNEY TO THE POLES

For Teachers

HOW DOES THE STORY END?

Read this story to the children and ask them to come up with an ending for it, either aloud or in writing, based on the pictures. All ideas are welcome—they can let their imaginations run wild!

Part 1

Professor Penguin loved nature. He had just taken an airplane for a long trip to the North Pole and then to the South Pole.

When he got to the North Pole, he saw some little black and white birds.

“Wonderful!” he said. “It’s not every day you get to see members of the auk family flying around!”

Suddenly... (Continue the story, with animals from the Arctic.)

PROFESSOR PENGUIN'S JOURNEY TO THE POLES

Part 2

And then he was off to the South Pole!

When he got to the Antarctic, Professor Gorfou stepped down from the plane. Through the frost on his glasses, he could see some birds. They were too big to fly, and were walking in a funny way.

"More auks!," the pilot of the plane exclaimed.

"Not at all," replied the Professor. "These ones aren't auks, because they can't fly. They're penguins."

Suddenly... (Finish the story, with animals from the Antarctic.)
